• OVERVIEW

Singer/songwriter/guitarist Stiv Cantarelli, best known as the frontman of Italian psych-folk champs Satellite Inn, releases his solo debut under the name of The Saint Four (with the help of his old time friend and band member Fabrizio Gramellini), on March 10, 2009, and will begin a UK tour with performances in Sheffield, London and Leeds followed by a national and Northern Europe tour.

With his Satellite Inn bandmate Dario Neri, Stiv has recorded two critically acclaimed full-length albums, beginning with 1999's Cold Morning Songs. In 2006, In The Land of The Sun debuted on Urtovox Records just to be highly rewarded by both music press people and alt.country fans. La Stampa called it a "a work with a raw tone, live feeling, sweet changeovers that taste like a journey on a endless road" while Blow Up Magazine called it "a nocturnal concept record that underlines a mood between peace and tension" Stiv Cantarelli also has been busy with his side project Gold Rust, for which he produced the 2008 record Gold Rust Sings Volume II. Mucchio praised Gold Rust album as "Eleven tight and distorted songs, some of them with memorable melodies, others developing into acid guitar solos, overlapping with psychedelia"
